

A Competitive Region

The trends indicate that the Greater Pearl River Delta region will continue to be one of the world's most dynamic regions. This dynamism, coupled with greater openness and easier accessibility, will make the region particularly attractive to international investors. Hong Kong, the traditional access point for multinational companies into the Greater Pearl River Delta region, will continue to play a central role in the region's development.